

ProjX360 CI Project Management Software Released

Cloud-Based Software Manages Key Custom Integration Planning, Productivity February 24, 2016

Doug Greenwald

PTS Multimedia has officially launched ProjX360, the collaborative cloud-based project management software solution designed specifically for custom integrators, first introduced at CEDIA last year. Drawing on 20 years of experience in custom electronics, ProjX360 was created by Doug Greenwald, owner of PTS Multimedia, and co-owner of Creative Sound & Integration, a high-end integration company in Scottsdale, AZ.

“I am honored to announce the launch of ProjX360 specifically designed for the custom integration industry,” Greenwald said. “This fully integrated software gives project managers and key stakeholders the ability to seamlessly control costs, manage budgets, improve productivity, and communicate amongst their team to ensure that projects are delivered on time and within budget.”

The cloud-based software is unique in the sense that it is tailored specifically for the custom integration industry. It is designed to be intuitive to use, features a responsive design for mobile devices, and is priced competitively for the CI market.

Since its official launch earlier this month, 41 companies are already using ProjX360 software, according to Greenwald, and 200 licenses have been sold (a license is required for each user within a company; there's a three-user minimum per company.) Greenwald offers special pricing for companies with more than 10 users.

For a limited time, new subscribers are receiving a $200 discount on setup fees by using promotional code LAUNCH when they visit the ProjX360 website.
