This past fall prior to the annual CEDIA Expo, the Ariz.-based co-owner of Creative Sound & Integration, Doug Greenwald, announced the impending release of his software platform ProjX360.

Now available, ProjX360 is a software solution that was developed to enable custom installers to efficiently run their businesses. Applying his more than 20 years of industry experience into the product Greenwald and his company PTS

Multimedia, say the software suite's cloud-based technologies support users' ability to manage their business from anywhere.

"I am honorred to announce the launch of ProjX360, which is specifically designed for the custom integration industry," states Greenwald. "This fully integrated software gives project managers and key stakeholders the ability to seamlessly control costs, manage budgets, improve productivity and communicate amongst their team to ensure that projects are delivered on time and within budget."

The company explains that because the software is tailored to the needs of installers it includes features for time tracking, scheduling, service invoicing, file management, and other options, and through its cloud-based technologies, users can access project information remotely from any device.

PTS Multimedia adds that for a limited time as part of the software tool's initial launch it will offer new subscribers to ProjX360 a $200 discount on its setup fees when using the promotional code LAUNCH.
